

Why we Relay in Bedford

"I Relay for my mother and grandfather who, thanks to amazing treatment and doctors, are still here today. I hope for a world where more families can beat the odds and cancer is nonexistent."

"I Relay for my loved ones within my family, but also for family friends who have fought a battle against cancer. I dream of seeing a world with more birthdays, and to see a cure for cancer."

"I Relay for my family and friends who have fought hard against cancer, and to help aid in cancer research and fundraising."

"I Relay because a number of cancers run in my family and have deeply affected many people I love. I want to make a change in not only the future of my family's health, but all of those who are affected by cancer."

"I Relay for my dad who's a two time cancer survivor and for my aunt who is currently battling. I hope that someday I will be able to see a world that is free of cancer."

"I Relay for my family members and friends who have battled against cancer. I Relay because every person is somehow affected by cancer and I want to help change that."

"I Relay for my grandfather who is a cancer survivor and my aunt who is a two time survivor. I want to see that one day cancer is not in our world and want to be part of helping end it."

"I Relay for my grandma who I never got to meet because of cancer, and for my aunt who I also lost to cancer. I want to be able to work towards a cure and I hope that there will someday be a world unaffected by cancer."

"I Relay for my grandmother who fought long and hard to finally become cancer free, and everyone else who is struggling or has struggled with it. I want to be a part of the movement that helped cancer research hopefully leading to the development of a cure."

"I Relay for my friends and family who have fought the battle against cancer. I Relay so that one day we can all live in a world without cancer."

"I Relay for my family members, especially my dad and for everyone else who has been affected by the disease."

"I Relay for my family, especially my dad, and others who have experienced and battled cancer. I want to support and inspire hope for patients, caregivers, and their families."
